This event will include a range of practice-based workshops for schools and colleges in all phases that will cover a range of themes

A Regional Learning Project Event organised by the Regional Co-ordinator 2012 Legacy and managed by the SDSA for the local authorities of the East Midlands region

Who should attend?

This event has been designed with schools and colleges in mind but it is also open to those who work in local authorities and other partner organisations, including the voluntary sector. Anyone who works with children and young people and is enthusiastic to learn more about the wealth of opportunities that the London 2012 Games will provide, should attend. The day will be ideal for headteachers, senior leaders and others in youth or extended services. Much of the event will be spent in workshops led by schools and 'scheme organisers' to illustrate work already underway and the opportunities that schools can enjoy in the coming months and years.
